OGDEN SHOWS UP M'CLOSKEY'S BUNCH

Ogden did things from the start. Hayes hit out a good one that would have got him nothing had not Dressan made a perfectly good boot. He went to second on Foley's sacrifice and Jack Murray called him home by a two-bagger.

In the second Van was given a pass and went to second on Wessler's little one to the pitcher and went to third on an error by Hummel. Hummel then climbed in the shed. Perkins hit for one and scored Van. Sinclair hit to Davis who slammed him out at first and Hayes fled out. Murray again was the shining light and hit a hard one bringing home Wessler and Perkins.

In the third, two two-baggers by Van and Wessler were sufficient to score Van for another run.

There was addition excitement in the fourth when two runs were added to the growing list. Hayes had his ribs tickled by the pitcher and Murray received a pass. Dorch, the new man, sent out a two-bagger that scored Murray and Hayes.

Behold! Five innings had passed and the mighty band of Skyscrapers had secured but one hit from Sinclair. McCloskey held solemn confab with his trusty underlings and some stern things were said. Galt, the first up in the fifth was given a pass. Murphy touched the pellet sufficiently for two bags putting Galt on third. After Spencer had been retired, Dorch, Van, Huelsman earned part of his salary by sending one over the fence scoring three points.

In the eighth Jake Bauer went in to hit for Moore, the catcher who left his specks at home and could not see the balls. Jake did fairly well as a pinch hitter—he hit one for three bags. Galt sent out a convenient single that scored the happy Jake. On the third, things might have gone on but they did not. A double play on the part of the Knights put the crimp in the hopes of the Zion fans who had turned out in goodly numbers to see a massacre.

"Poor Ogden" was what an alleged sports writer in Salt Lake yesterday morning said in his story. Ogden must go against a hard nut in the person of Roy Castleton who will pitch under McCloskey. Fiddler will be the man to do the honors for Ogden.

SKYSCRAPERS DEFEATED BY OGDEN

Salt Lake's high-priced bunch of swatters went down to an inglorious defeat on Lucas field yesterday afternoon when the youngsters managed by "Kitty" Knight hit at opportune moments, ran bases like major leaguers and fended difficult chances. The score was 7 to 4.

Had not "Hippo" Huelsman, the home run kid of the Skyscraper organization, connected safely with Sinclair's delivery after Galt and Murphy had managed to get on sacks, the score would have been even worse. Sinclair was a puzzle to the Zionites while it was necessary for McCloskey to work three of his moundmen in order to keep the Ogden batters to a legitimate number of swats.

Dorch, the new Ogden shortstop, played his first game yesterday and initiated himself into the good graces of the fans by handling seven snappy chances without error and topping that performance off with a clean hit. Murray sent out three safe ones from five times up and made a difficult running catch in the center garden. Hummel, Morgan and Galt were the gentlemen who did the pitching honors for Salt Lake, but all proved ineffective.

HELENA LOSES TO GREAT FALLS

Helena, May 27.—Helena dropped the first game of the series on the home grounds today with Great Falls. It was a pitchers battle. Cooney, for the locals, had a shade the better of the battle so far as hitting went, but a little slop fielding on the part of his team mates gave the honors to Duffy by a score of 4 to 2.

Cub Defeat Cardinals.
Chicago, May 27.—Chicago defeated St. Louis 2 to 1 today and as a result of New York's double defeat, went into third place. The game was a pitchers battle between Overall and Sallee. Sallee had but one bad inning, the first, when the locals bunched two of the three hits made off him, with a stolen base and an error for two runs. Mitchell made the third hit, a triple, but Sallee's great fielding cut Mitchell off at the plate when he tried to score on a grounder. Sallee retired in the eighth inning to allow Evans to bat for him. In this inning, singles by McLean and Evans, coupled with a sacrifice and an out, saved the visitors from a shut-out.

Manager Evans of Chicago, argued a decision with Umpire Orth and was ordered to the clubhouse.

Athletics Shut Out Senators.
Philadelphia, May 27.—Philadelphia won both games of the double-header from Washington here today in rather easy style, the first resulting in a shut out by 8 to 0 and the second 7 to 1.

In the first game Washington was helpless before Plank. The veteran left-hander allowed but two singles and but 28 men faced him. Not a Washington man runner passed first base and but one was left on the bases. Three double-plays by the Philadelphia infield helped cut down Washington runners. Philadelphia batted Engle from the box in the third inning and while they failed to hit Gallia hard, the latter's wildness and a few timely hits gave them four runs in the eighth.

Hughes was batted from the box in the fifth inning of the second game, but Altrock, who succeeded him, checked the Athletics' hitting and run getting.

Bender never had to exert himself. Oldring's hitting and base-running featured the game.

Doves Shut Out Giants.
Boston, May 27.—Boston won both games of a double-header from New York today, forcing the Giants into fifth place. The scores were 1 to 0 and 5 to 2.

Mathewson and Tyler had a pitchers' battle in the first game, which was decided in an unusual way. It was in the ninth inning. Maranville, first batter singled and went to second on Myers' sacrifice. Connolly followed with a single to center, but an accurate throw by Shafer retired Maranville at the plate. Connolly took right, dropping his bat as he ran. Connolly raced for home while Burns made a pretty throw to catch him, but the ball struck Sweeney's bat, caromed away from the waiting Meyers, and Connolly scored.

The fine pitching of Rudolph, who went in as relief pitcher after Perdue had made two runs off in the second inning and timely hitting by Boston gave the locals the second game. Rudolph was master in the seven innings in which he pitched. A double by Titus with three men on bases in the sixth inning scoring three runs, was an important factor in Boston's offense. Merkle, injured, his ankle sliding into second base in this inning and was succeeded by Snodgrass. Score:

Tigers Lose to Browns.
St. Louis, May 27.—Mitchell, tossing for the St. Louis Americans, won today a pitchers battle from Detroit. 3 to 2. Zamloch pitched good ball, but Stanage's throws to second were wild. St. Louis made two of its three runs in the seventh when Williams singled, took second on Pratt's sacrifice and scored on Stovall's triple of deep center. Austin's single brought in Stovall. The first run came in the fifth on Pratt's single and Vitt's error. Detroit scored one in the second and one in the third. Score:

NAVAL WEDDING.
San Diego, Cal., May 28.—Miss Edith Cowles, only daughter of Admiral and Mrs. W. C. Cowles, was married last night to Lieutenant Lee Saban, of the cruiser Maryland. Fifty relatives and friends of the couple attended the ceremony in the ball room of a Coronado hotel.

Admiral Cowles, stationed at Guaymas, was unable to attend.

BROUGHT FROM CLUBHOUSE TO COMPLETE THE PLAY

An old play was pulled off in the Pacific league recently—one that has come off more than once, but perhaps not under such circumstances. San Francisco and Oakland were the teams playing and the Seals finally won out in the 12th inning, when they should have had the game in the 10th, but for the play referred to. Fred Turner, writing of the game in a San Francisco paper, tells of it thus:

"Hoffman, batting for McArdle in the 10th inning, fanned, but Johnson singled sharply to left and Howard sent him around to third with a long single to right center. Howard stole second and then Zimmerman was purposely walked. McCarl went in to bat for Corban, with the bags full, and drove a hot grounder to Leard. Zimmy was forced at second by a toss to Cook. The latter tried for a double play by throwing to Ness, but was caught during the while Johnston had scored with the tying run for the Seals and Manager Howard tried to sneak in with the winning run. Ness pegged to Catcher Pearce, who missed the flying Howard. Umpire Bush was right on the job, but he made no decision. Like a flash the inference was given that Howard had missed the plate. Howard, however, followed by the Seals, had made a beeline to the clubhouse, and the only one left on the diamond were the arguing Oaks around the perplexed umpire.

"Bush could do nothing but hold his ground, for Pearce hadn't touched Howard and Howard hadn't touched the plate. Howard was also out of touching distance, and for ten minutes there was wild confusion at the home plate. Finally a hurrying message was sent to the clubhouse and Manager Howard came forth.

Foxy Bill Malarkey, who was doing the pitching, lost no time in touching Howard and Howard hadn't touched the plate. Howard was also out of touching distance, and for ten minutes there was wild confusion at the home plate. Finally a hurrying message was sent to the clubhouse and Manager Howard came forth. LUCKY PUNCH TAKES THE MONEY

What would have happened if Manager Howard hadn't accommodately come from the clubhouse to be touched out? Would Umpire Bush have stayed there to wait for the play to be made before he could give a decision, or would he have declared Howard out for not coming out to be retired.

"The same play came up in a world's series game, in 1911, and Larry Doyle, who was the runner, went to the clubhouse and stayed there. After a delay both teams left the field and the run was allowed to score. The rules are not very clear on the subject, but Manager Mize of the Oaks says that all that is necessary is for the catcher to take three steps in pursuit of the vanishing runner and then the umpire can make a decision, the same as in the case of a man missing second, third or first.

"At all events the Seals had to accept Bush's ruling and filed out of the clubhouse to resume play, finally winning a delayed victory in the 12th."

The idea advanced by Manager Mize of the Oakland team that the umpire would be compelled to rule out the runner who missed the plate if the catcher took three steps toward him with the ball may not be according to Hoyle, but it offers a suggestion for solution of the problem. As the rules are to be strictly interpreted, there is now no way that the runner can be called out if not touched, unless it be running out of line and that might not cover the case. The similar play in the world's series of 1911 referred to by Turner occasioned much comment at the time. Doyle was never touched at the plate and he never touched the plate. Umpire Klem told what he would have done had a protest been made. Bush declared the runner out. That made the third out and left the game tied.

"The question now presents itself: element of chance having aided them. Leach Cross was a surprise recently, when he knocked out the best lightweight the southland ever produced, Joe Mandot. It was the first time in his long and creditable career that the New Orleans boxer had ever been stopped.

The following morning the north-grams from Mandot's manager, claiming that "the lucky punch" had humbled Joe after he had beaten his conqueror all through the early rounds.

As a result of this claim, the "chance blow" has been the main subject considered by the Los Angeles ring lovers.

The writer recalls two positive cases where the "lucky punch" was responsible for false finishes.

One of these was Johnny Kilbane and Joe Rivers, an instance where a tired and discouraged boy suddenly found himself a winner without knowing what had happened.

At the end of the fifteenth round Rivers had fought himself into a big lead. The Mexican looked all over a winner and was laughing when he walked back to his corner. There was no mirth in Kilbane's system. John had reconciled himself to the loser's end.

In the sixteenth Rivers began to act as a clown, but finished as a disappointed party. With a sneer on his brown face, Joe stuck out his chin and invited a lead.

Kilbane accepted the invitation. With the best that was in his right arm, Johnny sank a wallop under the Mexican's jaw and Joseph went, head first, to the floor with his dry shoes rattling together in midair.

Rivers got up without knowing it, and the surprised Kilbane pulled himself together for the punches that sent Joe back for keeps to the canvas.

Billy Papke's win, in this same Vernon ring, over Stanley Ketchel, was due to "the lucky punch," a left jab between the eyes delivered before the first round was a minute old.

Ketchel, regarding Papke in the light of a "setup," answered the opening bell with his guard lowered. Papke, while backing away from "the assassin" shot in a wild left, and luck was with him. The blow caught Ketchel squarely between the eyes and dazed him to a point where he was practically helpless.

heart, prolonged the battle for 11 rounds and part of the 12th. Eight times in all he was beaten to the floor before Jim Jeffries finally pointed to Papke as a winner.

But for "the lucky punch" Ketchel probably would have made short work of Papke, who, at his best, was never in Stanley's class.

A few weeks later the men were rematched, and Ketchel knocked out Papke in the 11th round. They met for a fourth time, when Ketchel again won, taking the decision at the finish of the 20th. Previous to these battles Ketchel had whipped Papke in a ten round go at Milwaukee.

A more recent illustration of "the lucky punch," though one not so pronounced, was Rivers' ten round victory over "Kayo" Brown.

In the ninth round Brown gave Joe a severe body beating and returned to his chair the stronger of the two boxers. During the minute of intermission many of the Rivers backers tried to hedge their bets.

With Brown backing away from a clinch in the 10th, Rivers blindly swung his right, and the glove caught Brown on the "point." The eastern lightweight never recovered from this punch, and after being knocked down three or four times the bout was stopped, with Brown lying on his back.

These are but three of the many times when "the lucky punch" has been cashed.

CALIFORNIANS AT HARVARD STADIUM

Cambridge, Mass., May 28.—A little band which arrived from the University of California today formed the vanguard of the army of student athletes who will participate in the games of the Intercollegiate Association of American Amateur athletes in the Harvard stadium on Friday and Saturday. The Cornell, Michigan and Pennsylvania teams are expected tomorrow. The elimination events will be held Friday.

It will be California's first bid for honors in the intercollegiate association and close followers of the team admit it will pick up many points which will have an important effect on the result of the meet.

The withdrawal of several entries was announced today because of ineligibility.

DETECTIVE FACES ASSAULT CHARGE

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Robert J. Foster, a detective employed by the National Erectors' association during the investigation of the "dynamite conspiracy" cases here, charged with having assaulted Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, was placed on trial in the criminal court here this morning. Four counts against the detective allege assault and battery, trespass, carrying concealed weapons and drawing deadly weapons, all growing out of an encounter between Foster and Ryan early in the dynamite investigation.

AS CONVENTION CITY

Salt Lake, May 28.—That Salt Lake is more admirably adapted for a convention city than perhaps any other city in the country was the declaration made yesterday at a meeting of the Utah executive committee of the National Education association held at the Commercial club. J. Fred Anderson, chairman of the meeting place committee, reported progress in the matter of arranging for issues of the convention. Mr. Anderson said that while the places for these small meetings have not been arranged for they will be within a few blocks of the Hotel Utah, convention headquarters. He contrasted this with Philadelphia, where often it was necessary to travel several miles in order to get to small meetings.

G. M. Child, national director for Utah and chairman of the membership committee, reported rapid progress in the membership campaign. He said there were already 1000 paid up members, and expressed himself as certain that the 2500 guaranteed membership will easily be reached. Box Elder county, Ogden, Murray and the University of Utah have contributed 100 per cent membership, according to Mr. Child.
